	SAT/ACT Tutoring	SAT/ACT & EOC Tutoring

		As we continue through the semester, please remember that CCHS requires students to pass all EOC's in order to graduate from high school. If you are in an EOC class and need additional support, please take advantage of the additional EOC tutoring on select Saturday's throughout the semester. We are also offering SAT/ACT Verbal and Math tutoring for those who wish to attend as well. 2024 SPRING Tutoring Dates You need to take attendance in Power School!
